Brief aim(s) of the proposal and the outcome(s) you want to achieve

Update, February 2023

Adult social care is made up of a complex system of organisations that provide care and support to a significant proportion of Sheffield's population. We have been without a clear strategy that unifies this whole system in Sheffield for many years. Adult social care across the city faces substantial challenges, including the ongoing effects of the coronavirus pandemic, and we must develop a response that commits to improving the lives of people who draw on care and support.

The new strategy meets our obligations under the Care Act to have a strategy for adult social care. It has been developed with citizens, providers, and partners. It sets our vision for how the whole of adult health and social care will work together to deliver better outcomes for the people of Sheffield and tackle the challenges we are currently facing.

The Adult Social Care Strategy Delivery plan sets out the enablers and timeframes for delivery to meet the commitments and outcomes in the strategy.

Impact

Under the Public Sector Equality Duty we have to pay due regard to the need to:

- eliminate discrimination, harassment and victimisation
- advance equality of opportunity
- foster good relations

More information is available on the Council website including the Community Knowledge Profiles.

Note the EIA should describe impact before any action/mitigation. If there are both negatives and positives, please outline these – positives will be part of any mitigation. The action plan should detail any mitigation.

Overview

Briefly describe how the proposal helps to meet the Public Sector Duty outlined above

The strategy is fully consistent with the Duty and is particularly focused on ensuring equality of opportunity for people and communities who draw on care and support. Not enough people in Sheffield who need support in their daily lives are able to live the life they want to live.

The vision of our strategy - Everyone in Sheffield lives in a place they can call home, in communities that care, doing things that matter to them, and when they need it, they receive care and support that prioritises independence, choice, and recovery – is a statement of intent that everyone in Sheffield should be able to live the life they want to live. The strategy outlines that it is our role as advocates of the adult social care system to make sure this is the reality for the people of our city who draw on care and support.

The strategy sets out key values of how we as an adult health and social system should work – these are person-centred and strengths based, collaborative and empowering, and compliance and best value. These values highlight how we should recognise strengths, assets, skills, and talents who should be supported by flexible services that focus on the outcomes they want to achieve. By working in this way, we aim to remove the barriers people face to being able to engage and connect to what matters to them and tackle inequalities that affect people's lives and the care they receive.

We set out high-level actions that indicate how we'll focus our work over the next ten years to achieve the vision of the strategy. These include:

- Working with communities to develop and deliver the care and support people are looking for – moving away from fitting people into inflexible services that don't meet their specific needs or outcomes
- Developing an accessible team model where social work staff can work in partnership with and get to know their community – whatever and wherever this may be
- Providing more options for care with accommodation that helps people retain or regain control over their life, connected to their strengths and networks
- Transforming care at home so that people can continue to live in their homes, as they choose, in a way that meets their needs and doesn't limit their opportunities
- Improve how we share information and how people access our services so it's straightforward and recognises people have different access needs
- Ensure everyone, no matter how they access social care and support, receives the same standard of person-centred care
- Make sure everyone has an equal voice in designing the support and services they receive
- Deliver more flexible and simplified ways for people to be able to purchase and arrange their care and support around what they want to achieve

These actions are a commitment to working with our communities and understanding what they need to live the life they want to live and ensuring equal opportunity of access. Through this we deliver on the Public Sector Equality Duty.

Details of impact
The strategy recognises the importance of wellbeing as a determinant of health and that health creation takes place in communities. We have embedded the 5 ways to wellbeing throughout the strategy.
 We want to encourage our citizens to: keep healthy, active, and safe — including managing emerging and existing conditions give — volunteer if they can, share their knowledge and experience get connected — reach out to friends, talk to a neighbour, engage with their get connected — reach out to mends, tark to a neighbour, engage with their community keep learning — learn, relearn, and grow skills take notice — pause and reflect, focus on the here and now, look out for one another
We identified Integrated Care Systems as an enabling factor in the continued join up between health and social care, recognising that many people need social care support due to a health issue – whether that's in recovery from a crisis or as an ongoing issue.
The strategy is expected to go to Health & Care Partnership, CCG commissioning directors group, Health & Wellbeing Strategy for endorsement, recognising that in order to succeed in our vision for adult social care, we all have to work as a partnership and we need cross-sector buy in to ensure everyone has a good experience of health and social care.

Details of impact

26% of the adult social care workforce is aged 55 and over. This proportion of the workforce represents years of experience and skill and it's important this is value and recognised in the workforce strategy that comes out of the adult health and social care strategy. As a social care system, we must ensure that all the organisations in our system are age-friendly, with opportunities for flexible working, access to training and technology and investment in staff wellbeing. Age UK estimates that there are likely to be more over 50s in work than those under 30 in the next decade – this aligns with our strategy period and should be an important part of our approach.

In 2020/21, we also have a 7.3% vacancy rate in the adult social care workforce across the city – an increase on the previous year. We're exploring opportunities to reengage recently retired staff members in short term work where this suits them. We must also make social care an attractive career. This means breaking the perception that it is an unskilled profession and in the shadow of the NHS and means working attract younger workers.

Details of impact

According to POPPI data, in 2020, there are approximately 95,000 people aged over 65 in Sheffield. The 2030 estimate indicates a rise to 108,200. This increase in the number of older adults in the city could mean an increase in the need for services or support. An ageing population means more people with long term health conditions, and a higher risk of having 2 or more at the same time. This makes care and support more challenging in old age.

Carer's UK, Carer's Trust and our own research indicates that more people are receiving the care and support they need from unpaid care — from family, friends, or neighbours. For older people, family care can come from spouses and partners, who are themselves elderly with their own changing needs.

Older people are significantly the highest proportion of users of adult health and social care services. Much of the initial engagement and strategy development work focused on understanding people's experiences of ageing and how the strategy can suitably change the system to ensure this is a more positive experience in Sheffield.

The strategy details Commitments which should improve people's experience of ageing:

- Support people to live a fulfilling life at home, connected to the community and resources around them, and provide care and support where needed – supporting people to live at home where this is the right choice for them and connecting them to their community, reducing loneliness and isolation
- Provide temporary assistance to help people regain some stability and control in their life following ill health or crisis – perhaps following a fall or a diagnosis

 Provide care and support with accommodation where this is needed in a safe and supportive environment that can be called home – including care homes but expanding our options to ensure people have a choice of accommodation that best meets their needs, rather than defaulting to care homes.

The strategy recognises that transition between services is a key issue in how people experience adult social care in Sheffield. This has often been defined by services, rather than people's experience. We have particularly noted that the transition between children and young peoples' services to adult services needs improvement. The strategy sets the context for improving this transition and will further be explored in our subsequent and more detailed annual delivery plans in line with the commitment in Sheffield's One Year Plan 2021-22.

The particular impacts that are in the Strategy Delivery plan are

The design and implementation of the new operating model, this new model now has specialist services for older people

The strategic review of care homes which is informed by the healtwatch report that sets out people's experiences of residential care

The transformation of homecare which is moving to a strengths based, outcomes focussed service

The Family Resources Survey 2019-2020 gives us an overarching understanding of the prevalence of different impairments. Mental health impairment is the only category of impairment to have increased in the latest report – a 4% rise since 2017-18.

'* figures add to over 100% as individuals can report multiple impairments

This helps us have a picture of our communities and changing needs: the system needs to ensure it supports and responds to these.

The CQC State of Care 2020 report identified that there were higher rates of death from coronavirus during the pandemic for people with a learning disability. People with dementia, Alzheimer's disease, and mental health issues reported poorer experiences of care in hospital in the pandemic.

The strategy sets high level actions that recognise the differing needs of individuals to ensure the system can best support people with a disability in Sheffield:

- We will make sure everyone can be involved as an equal partner in designing the support and services they receive across the whole system.
- We will deliver more flexible and simplified ways for people to be able to purchase and arrange their care and support.
- We will overhaul how we share information so that it meets the needs of everyone in Sheffield, with plain language and simplified access steps.
- We will ensure people can move between care and support more easily, including health, social care, providers and the voluntary, community, and social enterprise sector.
- We will develop an accessible team model where social work staff can really work in partnership with and get to know their community.

From the strategy delivery plan the elements below are changes that will positively impact people with disabilities

Much of the impact on staff will be found in the subsequent workforce strategy but the overarching adult health and social care strategy sets the strategic intent to recognise and value our social care workforce for the incredible job they do. We identified that we need to ensure the workforce strategy doesn't lose focus on equality, diversity and inclusion and have identified this in the high-level plan.

We will develop and deliver a Sheffield workforce strategy for the whole system, focussing on equality, diversity, and inclusion.

Details of impact

Sheffield is an ethnically diverse city, with around 19% of its population from black or minority ethnic groups. The largest of those groups is the Pakistani community, but Sheffield also has large Caribbean, Indian, Bangladeshi, Somali, Yemeni and Chinese communities.

We know that the coronavirus pandemic has made inequalities worse. National research (CQC State of Care Report 2020) found that there were higher rates of death from coronavirus in Black and Asian ethnic groups.

As part of our engagement work when developing the strategy, community group leaders told us that strategies often don't focus enough on the ethnic minority population, fully engage them in understanding their specific needs or design services that meet those needs. They told us that the whole adult care system is difficult and complicated and that we need to simplify the whole system and language. We need to include and be relevant to all communities and simplify our language and processes. We heard about specific challenges of some of our communities, who forgo their own care in favour of supporting families in their home countries.

The strategy has been developed from a recognition of the strength of our communities and especially during the coronavirus pandemic. Health and wellbeing happens in communities that care – our strategy aims to support and strengthen this wherever we can, alongside a commitment to equality and diversity, and adopts this this as part of our person-centred value:

- We view everyone as unique individuals who have strengths, assets, skills, and talents.
- We avoid trying to fit people into a range of inflexible services. Instead, we focus on their strengths, assets, and the outcomes they want to achieve.
- We listen to what matters to each person we work with, making sure they have an equal voice in their care and support.
- We work with communities to develop and deliver care and support that helps people early and to stay healthy and connected to what matters to them.
- We remove barriers so that people can engage and connect with what matters to them, including delivering support more locally.
- We tackle inequality, working to make sure that everyone has the same access to and experience of excellent care and support.

We've additionally set specific actions in our high-level plan that recognise what our community leaders have told us:

 We will provide a partnership of care and support, designed, and delivered with communities – we need to continue to trust our communities: they know themselves and the Pages 236

- We will develop an accessible team model where social work staff can really work in partnership with and get to know their community – this doesn't need to be geographic: many of our ethnic minority communities are spread out across the city, though there may be community hubs communities come together in.
- We will overhaul how we share information so that it meets the needs of everyone in Sheffield, with plain language and simplified access steps everyone should be able to understand how to access services and what they can expect.
- We will invest in a system-wide approach that means everyone receives the same standard and continuity of preventative person-centred care – our system should tackle inequality and ensure we deliver culturally sensitive support.

There is specific emphasis on race in the strategy delivery plan for 2023/24. A commitment to a more systematic approach to designing and testing services that culturally and racially appropriate and to ensuring people equality of access and experience.

We will be looking to align to the recommendations in the Race equality report and also local reports, for example the SACMHA report about homecare.

Our values highlight the way in which we will focus on recognising where religion and belief are important to the people who use adult social care:

- We listen to what matters to each person we work with, making sure they have an equal voice in their care and support.
- We work with communities to develop and deliver care and support that helps people early and to stay healthy and connected to what matters to them.
- We remove barriers so that people can engage and connect with what matters to them, including delivering support more locally.
- Important Human Rights principles of dignity, fairness, respect, and equality will be at the centre of all we do.

Disability-free life expectancy is decreasing, particularly for women (based on Office for National Statistics, Heath state life expectancies UK: 2017 to 2019 report), and a higher number of people face years of poor health and increased difficulty in older age.

The Family Resources survey (2019-2020) indicates that women were more likely to be informal care providers, with 2.7 million versus 1.8 million men. In all age groups, up to the age of 74 years, the proportion of women providing informal care was greater than men. This trend reversed for all age groups over 75 years, where men were more likely to be informal carers.

Our person-centred values in particular - we listen to what matters to each person we work with, making sure they have an equal voice in their care and support – should help us ensure our system gives everyone a voice.

In the Strategy delivery plan, the carers strategy will start to be implemented on 2023 which will provide positive impacts for women who care for dependents.

- 51% of carers indicated that their physical health has got worse since the start of the pandemic.
- 33% of carers described their mental wellbeing as bad (25.7%) or very bad (7.6%).
- 68% of carers feel that their mental wellbeing has got worse since the start of the pandemic.
- 22% of carers reported that they found it difficult to find the information they need.
- 56% of carers would like more help in order to manage their caring role.
- 11% of carers said they didn't feel they could provide care safely.
- 67% of carers don't have an emergency plan in place.

• 11% of carers indicated they don't have enough money for essentials. If the caring situation breaks down this has big implications for the health and social care systems in Sheffield.

The strategy makes a clear commitment to Carers: Commitment 5 states that we will 'recognise and value unpaid carers and the social care workforce and the contribution they make to our city'. Within this we set a high-level action - We will embed a clear support offer and structure for all carers.

From the strategy delivery plan, the implementation of the carers strategy should make a significant difference to carers across the city

Details of impact

The adult social care strategy is a whole system approach to providing care and support Sheffield. This includes the voluntary, community and faith sectors which should be seen as a vital part of that system, supporting many people in their communities often preventing need arising in the first place. Sheffield has a wellestablished, vibrant voluntary, community and faith sector. It is these often smaller organisations, rooted in the community, that keep people well, understand their needs and advocate for their communities.

We identified 'collaborative and empowering' as a key value in our strategy because of this recognised need for partnership and system working:

- We communicate openly sharing information and listening to others.
- We collaborate with people and communities to make sure we're working together effectively, and we are committed to developing more ways to share power.
- We continue to support effective integration, particularly across health and social care, but also across the system.
- We support everyone who works to deliver adult social care to be knowledgeable, informed, innovative, and creative in their work.

Much of the impact on staff will be found in the subsequent workforce strategy but the overarching adult health and social care strategy sets the strategic intent. As a strategy for the whole of the adult social care workforce, our workforce strategy must ensure the whole social care workforce, including those in the voluntary, community and faith sectors, are supported by a system that recognises their value and contribution.

Being supported by communities that care is one part of wellbeing. We know that volunteering and contributing our skills and experience to our communities has a massive impact on our well-being and overall health.

We have made a clear commitment the strategy to work in better partnership with our voluntary, community, and faith sector partners to ensure our adult social care system is better aligned with what matters to people. This means recognising the power this sector has in helping people to maintain independence and health wherever they are.

Commitment 1 in our strategy highlights this: Support people to live a fulfilling life at home, connected to the community and resources around them, and provide care and support where needed.

Within this, we've set a clear action in our high-level plan to better work with communities and those who represent them:

We will provide a partnership of care and support, designed, and delivered with communities.

This means ensuring these sectors are well-represented within strategy and delivery development alongside ongoing governance, accountability, and performance management. We have been well supported in developing this new strategy by our partners across the sector and encouraged by their ongoing commitment to help us embed this new approach.

Our commissioning plan will aim to have a positive impact on the voluntary, community and faith sector.

The strategy has a clear focus on community as a key source of health and wellbeing. The community of people who use adult social care are at risk of exclusion from the wider community because of their differing needs, clearly impacting on the feeling of community cohesion. It's important that the strategy fosters communities of interest as well as place that everyone can feel included in.

Care with accommodation has the potential to be restrictive and exclusive environments and care homes certainly have this reputation. The high-level plan commits to 'develop vibrant options for care that offer more choice, that help the person to retain or regain control of their life and build on the strengths of the person and their networks.' This is a recognition of the connection between care and the community.

The strategy refers regularly to supporting people to live a fulfilling life at home. Everyone should be able to live in a place they can call home – this may not always be their own home and in some cases should not be. Home is a reflection of a space that is one's own, where we can feel safe and connected to the people and things that matter to us, connected to a community.

The Department of Health and Social Care published a White Paper 'Integrating care: Next steps to building strong and effective integrated care systems across England' in February 2021. This sets out how the law will change to improve how health and social care work together, including better partnerships through Integrated Care Systems (ICS).

We identified 'collaborative and empowering' as a key value in our strategy because of this recognised need for partnership and system working:

- We communicate openly sharing information and listening to others.
- We collaborate with people and communities to make sure we're working together effectively, and we are committed to developing more ways to share power.
- We continue to support effective integration, particularly across health and social care, but also across the system.
- We support everyone who works to deliver adult social care to be knowledgeable, informed, innovative, and creative in their work.

We already have existing strong partnerships across the city in adult health and social care. Many of these have been tested and strengthened through the recent coronavirus pandemic. The strategy sets the overarching intention to build on these connections and improve on them wherever possible.

From the strategy delivery plan, the new asc operating model and the homecare contract align to Primary care network boundaries and the embedding of the new new models will involve transforming to an integrated place based health and care model. This will make it easier for people to understand roles and responsibilities and connect with each more easily to improve customer outcomes.

The market shaping statements and principles set out how we will move to a closer, more equal relationship with partners starting with community based preventative services development through to closer working as part of a health and care family with care providers in communities.

Details of impact

Improved collaboration across the system with our partners should pay dividends for the people who use our services. People's support needs and the outcomes they want to achieve but not defined by the organisations that support them or their boundaries. Taking a system approach with our partners should ensure a better focus on individuals and the outcomes they want to achieve alongside really considering what matters to them.

Some of this is embedded in our commitments: for example commitment 4 we should make sure support is what matters to you with helpful information and easier to understand steps.

Actions in our high-level plan that clearly support this aim include:

- we will invest in a system wide approach that means everyone receives the same standard and continuity of preventative person-centred care
- We will make sure everyone can be involved as an equal partner in designing the support and services they receive across the whole system
- We will ensure people can move between care and support more easily, including health, social care, providers, and the voluntary, community, and social enterprise sector

The new operating model should make it easier for customers to connect up with appropriate services in communities due to more integrated working with partners and providers Page 245

We know that paying for care can put considerable stress on individuals and affect whether they approach services for support, considering that they worry they will be financially worse off or must sell their homes. The number of pensioners in poverty has now passed the two million mark, according to Age UK, with Black and Asian older people most at risk of struggling financially in later life. Since 2013/14, the number of pensioners in poverty has risen by almost a third (31 per cent) from 1.6 million. Official figures show that a third of Asian older people (33 per cent) and just under a third of Black older people (30 per cent) in the UK live below the poverty line, compared to 16 per cent of White older people. The over-85s, renters, and single, female pensioners, are also at greater risk of poverty than the older population as a whole.

Benefits changes affect the whole population, and some people on long-term benefits worry about working affecting their income. The system can be incredibly difficult to navigate, and issues can take a significant amount of time to resolve when they arise. We heard from carers of autistic people that they felt pressured into finding work by a system that didn't want them on benefits rather than that a good job was the right for them.

Carers receive a limited Allowance, and some feel this is a limited recompense for the support they provide that effectively saves the adult social care system overall.

The strategy sets out Commitment 6 to 'make sure there is a good choice of affordable care and support available, with a focus on people's experiences and improving quality.' We've further outlined a high-level actions that are relevant to ensuring people are better able to understand our financial processes and take more control over them:

- We will overhaul how we share information so that it meets the needs of everyone in Sheffield, with plain language and simplified access steps.
- We will deliver more flexible and simplified ways for people to be able to purchase and arrange their care and support.

In the adults social care strategy delivery plan we have already improved availability of money management options for those that opt to have direct payments.

We are also looking to broaden our support around debt management and managing money in future

40% of UK veterans are aged 16-64 and 60% are over 65. Experience of service and the transition to civilian life may have a negative effect on veterans' wellbeing (The health and wellbeing needs of veterans: a rapid review, 2017). Veterans can face disability and injury, alongside trauma and mental health issues, on discharge.

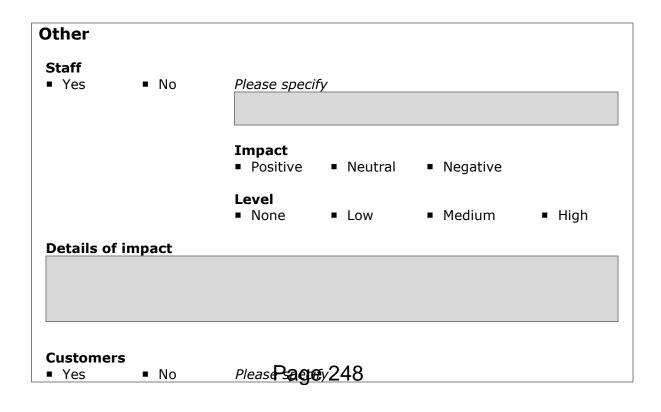

There is also a concept called the 'healthy soldier effect' that means some veterans have been observed to have a lower mortality risk relative to the general population – this can be partly attributed to high physical health standards for entry into the Armed Forces. Recent conflicts may be changing this 'healthy soldier effects – some research indicates that 'prolonged and repeated deployments [and] survival from injuries that would have resulted in death in previous conflicts' could be changing this.

Overall there are no differences between veterans' and non-veterans' self-reported general health (Annual Population Survey 2017).

The King's Centre for Military Health Research 'estimates the overall rate of probable PTSD among a sample of current and ex-serving regular military personnel was 6% in the 2014/16 cohort... this compares to a rate of 4.4% within the civilian population'. There are dedicated services available to support veterans' and armed forces personnel's mental health.

In 2014 it was estimated that the proportion of those sleeping rough who had services in the Armed Forces ranged from 3% to 6%.

The whole system has a role to play in supporting the Armed Forces community in line with the Armed Forces Covenant – for example in employment, healthcare, housing, education, and financial advice.

Action Plan and Supporting Evidence

Action Plan

The delivery of the strategy through the AHSC Transformation Programme puts in place a formal partnership governance structure that will enable monitoring of impact for citizens and the system. The Strategy Delivery Board, reporting to the Strategic Board, will:

- 1. Provide assurance that plans are complete and sufficient to achieve the aims of the Adult Health & Social Care Strategy
- 2. Provide assurance that the outcomes of the Adult Health & Social Care Strategy are being delivered

Three Engagement Boards will sit alongside this structure – Workforce, Citizen Social Care Panel and Providers – to shape and influence ongoing delivery. This will help ensure we are accountable for the impact on citizens and progress against our delivery plans and achievement of outcomes.

The strategy's high-level plan sets out actions that shape our intentions over the years: how will we know we've made a difference is a key question that sits alongside them. This ensures there is a focus on experience and outcomes over output based metrics.

The high-level plan also commits to an action to 'embed open and transparent decision making alongside plans and priorities for adult social care, designed and developed with the people of Sheffield.' This is likely to take the form of annually co-designed and published delivery plans. We will review this EIA annually in line with this delivery plan.

Additional actions arising from the EIA:

- Improve system understanding of cultural factors that affect uptake of social care by ethnic minority groups
- Improve the identification of carers
- Gain a better understanding of the whole of the social care workforce in Sheffield, for example those with a disability or who are informal carers
- Utilise updated Census data to explore previously limited demographic data, such as sexual orientation, in our social care cohort

Summary of overall impact

Summary of overall impact

Overall positive impact from setting the intention around developing a more flexible system of support that is driven by 'what matters' to the people who use the system. This includes reducing organisational silos and increased partnership working and making our information and processes easier to understand.
